

We have a preference
for modern art.

Sometimes, beauty is enhanced with age. But when it comes to the art of flying, only the latest designs will do. That is why Lufthansa's collection of aircraft has always been among the most modern in the world. For instance, this year, we will be adding 31 of the very latest models to our fleet, insuring that our performance remains as beautifully punctual and dependable as ever. Our preference for modern art requires us to spend more than most other airlines, but we think it well worth the investment.

People expect the world of us.
